

SEYMOUR DAILY REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME XXXIII NO. 199 SEYMOUR, INDIANA, FRIDAY, JULY 24, 1908. PRICE TWO CENTS

NO VERDICT

Coroner Has Not Announced Cause of Death at Tunnel.

Coroner H. C. Voyles, of Bedford, who was at Ft. Ritner Thursday holding an inquest as to the death of Henry Dixon, came here on No. 8 late in the afternoon and returned home by way of the Southern Indiana. The inquest lasted about five hours and a number of witnesses were examined. It is said that the investigation is still going on and that a decision will not be given for some time yet.

Mr. Fields, the day watchman at the tunnel saw Mr. Dixon start through the tunnel at 3:50 in the morning to signal No. 12. When Engineer John Donnell saw no light at the west end of the tunnel he slowed down to have his train under control for any obstruction that might be ahead. After they had gone some distance in the tunnel they saw the green light waving for a clear track and they pulled ahead. As the nightwatchman did not come on out Fields started in with a lantern and found his body lying about six hundred feet from the east entrance. Dixon's head was still bleeding which showed that he had not been dead long. This was about 35 minutes after Dixon had started through the tunnel ahead of No. 12. The unfortunate young man had come to his death during that short interval and no other train but No. 12 had passed.

The wound on Dixon was in the upper back part of the head and must have caused instant death. Fred Downs was the fireman on No. 12.

The indications are that Dixon was either murdered or struck by No. 12 and killed. The deceased was twenty-five years of age and leaves a wife and two small children.

The funeral services occurred at the Proctor church 1 1/2 miles north of Ft. Ritner Friday morning at eleven o'clock and was attended by many relatives and friends. Burial at the cemetery near the church.

Improvements.

George Niehaus the drayman is building a new barn to replace the one that was destroyed by fire recently at his residence in the third ward. He hopes to have the building completed by the end of next week. Several carpenters are employed and the work is being pushed as the barn and shed room are very much needed for sheltering the horses and wagons, feed etc. Mr. Niehaus had no sheds left to take the place of his barn.

Silver Heights Campmeeting

The twenty-first annual camp meeting to be held on Silver Heights, New Albany, August 4 to 16, promises to be largely attended. Senator and Mrs. W. O. Bradley, of Kentucky, are announced among those who will occupy cottages there. Several will go from Seymour to attend this campmeeting.

MARRIED.

LAHRMAN-PRATHER. Thursday evening George Lahrman and Miss Faith Prather, both of Brownstown, drove to the home of Rev. F. H. Reynolds at Pleasant Grove where they were united in marriage. They will make their home at Brownstown where they are well known and have many friends.

Good Catches.

Will Clark, who is doing some fishing near Rockford this week, reports some good catches. He landed one that weighed near 18 pounds, another ten pounder and still another that weighed five pounds. Besides these he has landed several smaller ones.

RAILROAD RUMBLINGS.

J. E. Greeley, of the Indianapolis and Louisville Traction Company, was here from Louisville this afternoon on business.

Train No. 6, the early morning train on the Pennsylvania line, southbound, was an hour and a half late this morning. The nine o'clock train southbound was also twenty minutes late.

Engineer William Hyland, of the Southern Indiana local, and wife left Thursday on a visit with relatives and friends at Forest, Ind. Engineer Frank Finger, of Linton, will have charge of Mr. Hyland's run during the latter's absence.

Richart's are selling all broken lots of shoes and Oxfords at cost.

DIED.

DIXON.—Irving Dixon, the little five months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Dixon, died Wednesday, July 22, 1908, at their home at Yates City, Ill., after a short illness with inflammation of the bowels. The little fellow had been ailing for about a week but had only been seriously ill for about two days. The remains were brought to Seymour this morning and taken to Brownstown on the accommodation where the burial occurred at the Fairview cemetery. The funeral occurred at Yates City Thursday morning at eight o'clock. Only Mr. Dixon accompanied the remains here this morning as Mrs. Dixon was not able to make the trip. Mr. Dixon is a farmer and he and Mrs. Dixon formerly lived at Brownstown, having left there about six years ago.

Wrestling Match.

Demetral, the Greek demon, of Chicago, will be here next Friday night for a wrestling match with "Kid" Wiggam who won the contest at the Seymour opera house last Saturday night. Wiggam will go into training again Saturday for the coming match which promises to be better even than the one of last Saturday night. This match was first planned for Indianapolis. A full orchestra is promised and a preliminary bout by a Seymour man and a wrestler from Columbus. Special arrangements will be made for seating the audience where the contest can be seen to the best advantage. A much larger crowd is expected than attended the contest last week. Both men have won many laurels and the contest promises to be an interesting one.

Faithful Fishermen.

Athas Gabard was in the city Thursday and again today and had quite an account to give of the success of the fishermen at camp. Bert White and Herman Steinkamp are both classed as expert pole and line fishermen. Steinkamp has been fishing for bass straight along and while he has not succeeded in catching any, he has caught some skipjacks which none but experts are able to land. They stay around where the bass are and every time you land one you have evidence that you have come that near catching a bass. Bert White has been fishing faithfully since Monday morning and had only succeeded in landing one lonesome turtle up to the time of our report. It is supposed that Gabard has not done even that well or we would have heard about it.

Country Club.

The golf links and the tennis court on the Country Club grounds north of the city are attracting many members of the Country Club each day. Quite a number of business and professional men have been taking their first lessons in golf the past few days. They are finding it a very interesting game and besides it is proving good outdoor exercise for them. Others are playing tennis and in that some very exciting matches have been played. Some good players are being developed insuring good games throughout the season. The grounds are in fine condition and present a beautiful appearance.

From Bell's Ford.

Beatty Jerrell drove in from the camp near the Bell's Ford at noon today and reported a catch of a twenty-two pound catfish Thursday night. Beatty will see to it that all the reports of big fish do not come from the other camps while he is out and we may expect to hear of Jack Ford's record being broken again if all these fishermen remain out for another week or two.

Eat Fish at Langdon.

Misses Laura Kasting, Alma Grelle and Bertha Breitfield and others went to Langdon Thursday morning and spent the day with the crowd who are camping on the Muscatatuck. They had a fish fry at dinner and a fish fry at supper and a fish fry lunch with Walter Ahlbrand as chief cook. Everybody had a good time and enjoyed the day very much.

To Mineral Springs.

A party of a dozen or more went to Mineral Spring on the 3:53 car this afternoon. They took along their lunch baskets and will have their supper in the grove near the famous spring. This is said to be a very fine picnic ground and since the traction line runs by it, it will grow in popularity.

Balser Kirsch is seriously ill at his home on S. Vine street. The physician has been called several times during the past few days.

CLEAR AND COOL

Water that Reminds Old Shop Men of Famous Well.

As operated at present the Blith Mills are consuming, say 40,000 gallons of water per day for steam making purposes. This water is secured from a bored well located in the boiler house, reaching to a depth of 81 feet. The water is clear and sparkling with a uniform temperature of 40 deg. Fahr., thus making a delightful and refreshing drink.

The water carries with it quite a tang of sulphur, and is undoubtedly the same stream that supplied the famous old O. & M. "round house well" of years ago, about which our fellow townsmen, Mr. John Thumser or Mr. Andy Ross, can tell you many stories if you will ask them.

The men about the mill, as well as some of the nearby residents, have been drinking this water for a long time, but on account of the pump being somewhat inconveniently located the general public have known very little about it.

Just before new wheat began to move a few days since, the mill management connected up a system of pipes which now brings a drinking supply of this water right up to where the wagon wheat is unloaded, and it is proving to be quite a boon to the wheat haulers especially, who have come in from a long dusty road, or perhaps worked in the harvest field all day.

Jacob Riis.

Jacob Riis whom Roosevelt pronounces New York's most useful citizen, is to be one of the stars at the Jeffersonville and New Albany Chautauqua Assembly at Glenwood Park on August 9th.

Thirty odd years ago Jacob A. Riis was what is called a tramp. He slept in police stations and even in graveyards, his best coat in the cold winter was a linen duster, he was hungry for days and was glad to eat a mess of bread and bones shoved to him through the alley window of a hotel kitchen.

But all the time he was looking for work and the chance came to him to be a newspaper reporter and what he did was done so well that President Roosevelt said not long ago: "Jacob Riis is the most useful citizen in New York."

Deputy Camp Meeting.

The program for the Deputy campmeeting has been arranged, beginning August 11 and closing on the 23d. The Rev. A. W. Miller, evangelist, will preach twice daily. Mrs. D. A. Brewer, of Whiteland, and Mrs. H. L. Liddle will assist in the services, and the music will be in the charge of the Rev. W. E. Cissna. On Sunday, August 16, there will be a sermon by Bishop D. H. Moore, of Cincinnati, and in the evening by the Rev. W. S. Bovard, president of Moores Hill College. The meetings will be under direction of the Rev. C. C. Edwards, district superintendent, and Rev. H. L. Liddle.

Sliding On Banisters.

Edward, nine-year-old son, of Frank Miller and wife, met with what might have proven a serious accident last Tuesday afternoon. He had been sliding down the banister of the stairway leading to the Pentecost hall, when he fell from almost the top landing breaking his left arm between the wrist and elbow and bruising his head in several places. He was taken to Dr. Heller, who attended his injuries. Brownstown Banner.

Day on River.

Mr. and Mrs. James Straton, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Straton, Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Carter, Mrs. F. H. Hadley and children, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Leland and daughter, Miss Mary, of Arcola, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Sim Leland and son of Madison, Ind., and H. G. Straton spent yesterday at the river. They do not report any big catch however.

Holds Old Job.

J. W. Pomeroy, who is engineer on the B. & O. switch engines here, was offered a local run, with headquarters at Washington, and for a time was considering the proposition, but decided Mitchell was good enough for him, so will retain his old job.—Mitchell Commercial.

Will Locate In Oregon.

Rev. and Mrs. H. C. Elliott will leave Seymour some time in August and locate at Ashland, Oregon. Their church here has understood for several weeks that they were to go about that time but not much has yet been done to fill the vacancy. The matter will possibly be discussed to some extent at an official meeting to be held soon. Rev. and Mrs. Elliott came here from Tipton, Mich., early in the spring of 1907 and took charge of the church of the Nazarene the first of May and have done a successful work in this city. They are hard workers in the Master's vineyard and have no compromise to make with sin. They stand for the right as they see the right and have no apology to offer.

During their stay here they have made many warm friends who will regret to see them leave but whose prayers and best wishes will go with them to their new field of work.

Rev. Elliott will probably preach his last sermon here on the 9th of August, or two weeks from next Sunday. They will leave soon afterwards for their new location in the far northwest. It will be the intention of the members of his church to get another minister as early as possible.

Officers Installed.

Seymour Lodge No. 418 Pathfinders installed the following officers Thursday evening for the ensuing term:

P. A. Nichter, President. Miss Mattie Cole, Vice President. Everett Ellis, Past President. Mrs. Laura Stewart, Secretary. Adam Hauersperger, Treasurer. Mrs. Yunie Young, Chaplain. Mrs. Bertha Campbell, Associate Editor. Ben Smith, Sargent of Arms. Otto Campbell, Collector. Mrs. Lizzie Hauersperger, Guide. Mrs. Lizzie Smith, Inner Guide. Miss Zella Hashman, Outer Guide. Trustees, Willard Young, Everett Ellis and Thomas Stewart. Miss Edna Nichter, Musician. H. R. Lucky, Medical Examiner. Everett Ellis acted as installing officer and after the installation refreshments were served. Those attending report a splendid time.

Cattle Stolen.

About three weeks ago, John H. Wohrer, of Spencer township, one of the county's most substantial citizens, missed four head of Jersey cattle from a pasture near his home and he has now come to the conclusion that they were stolen. Mr. Wohrer, who is quite deliberate before making charges had hoped that the cattle would finally turn up safe and sound and for this reason he conducted a quiet search for several days. A man who was seen on the farm prior to the disappearance of the cattle acted in a very peculiar manner when he was taken by surprise and Mr. Wohrer after due investigation believes that this party at night drove the cattle to Seymour and shipped them away early in the morning. They were worth about $120.—North Vernon Sun.

Put to Wrong Use.

Some of the people throughout the country seem to be in error in regard to the rural route mail boxes. These boxes are under the supervision of the government as much so as the boxes in the post office proper. The post-office authorities here have been advised of the fact several times that business men were using the boxes on the rural routes for a place in which to put bills and advertising matter without paying the postage due upon it. This is a direct violation of the postal laws and for every instance in which this is done a fine of $10 for the one who thus violates the laws is invited.—Washington Democrat.

August Success.

In the August number of "Success Magazine," under the title "A Minister's Confession," a prominent clergyman tells of his attempt to be a man and a citizen as well as a minister of the gospel. Emerson Hough discusses America's urgent need for improvements of waterways. William Mailly, who managed the Socialist campaign of 1904, tells what Socialism really is and what it is not. His article is entitled "The Socialist Bugaboo." The subject of Orison Swett Marden's editorial is "New Thought—New Life." David Graham Evans writes instructively about Industrial Bonds.

New Trial.

President Roosevelt has directed the Attorney General to take immediate steps for the retrial of the Standard Oil case. The President, in a statement, says there is no doubt of the guilt of the defendant and that an escape through technicalities would be a gross miscarriage of justice.

POSTPONED

Honeytown Picnic Will Be Held on Later Date.

The Honeytown Sunday school picnic which was to have been held tomorrow has been postponed until a later date on account of the death of Mrs. Thos. Cross, sr. At first the report came yesterday that the picnic would be postponed and in the afternoon Thursday the REPUBLICAN received a message by telephone that the picnic would be held as advertised. But later in the day those in charge got together and decided that it would be better to postpone, which was done.

The picnic will be held but the exact date has not yet been fixed. The management will get together soon, agree on a date and announce same. Sunday schools over the county will be apprised of time the picnic will be held.

The funeral of Mrs. Cross was held this afternoon and was attended by a large concourse of friends.

Home First.

Never loose opportunity to boost your own town. Never miss a chance to help along every line of legitimate business conducted by your home people. Never pass up the merchants of your own city when you go out to buy something for yourself or family. Never overlook the products of the factories in your own city when you want to buy such articles as the they manufacture. Never fail to show partiality for the interests of your home city. Be a booster for your neighbors and home friends and they are sure to reciprocate.

Their Favorites.

Mr. Bryan is passionately fond of "La Paloma" and whistles it until everybody around the farm gets tired. "On the Bank of the Washbasin," which the country was humming until "After the Ball" broke loose, is the favorite song of the Kern campaign in Indiana. The Democratic national committee might have for its official ballad "If You Ain't Got No Money You Needn't Come 'Round."—Ex.

Doctors Graessle, Luckey and Shields had Mrs. Mary Vogel under the influence of an anesthetic for about thirty minutes at the hospital Friday morning while they did a little work on the patient in preparation for the final operation which will be performed a little later, whenever the conditions appear to be right. The physicians are still hopeful of the patient's condition but it takes some time for the case to develop properly.

Oran Perry, adjutant-general, says that the law which prescribes a penalty for keeping or secreting uniforms and other property of the Indiana National Guard is working well all over the state. The penalty is a fine of not more than $200. At Greenfield, a former member of the company had been fined $13.25 for having in his possession uniforms belonging to the company.

New Recruits.

Henry Dierker and Noble Trueblood, of Brownstown, and Henry LaMaster, of Scottsburg, were three new recruits for the United States army who left here Thursday for the recruiting station at Louisville. All are to be removed to Columbus, O. and assigned to the coast artillery. The enlistments seem to be more rapid in the service at the present time than they were last year. The betterment of the service, the better wages paid and the slight scarcity of labor are given as the reasons for the increase.

There has hardly been a time during the past few years when Uncle Sam would not have been pleased to have a few thousand more soldiers, and to prevent being too much handicapped by a shortage it has finally been decided to raise the wages. The policy of the government was to raise our standing army from 25,000, what it was before the Spanish-American War, to 100,000, but instead it has been kept most of the time recently at only about 65,000. This number would seem to be too small when the location and the vast extent of our territory and our island possessions are taken into consideration. This locality is certainly sending out its share of recruits recently and if this increase is kept up everywhere the stringency will soon be relieved.

The Taft Train.

"The indications are now that we will have about 1000 on our special excursion," said Robert H. Bryson, of Indianapolis, chairman of the committee on arrangements, who has been at the head of the movement to take a big Indiana delegation to Cincinnati Tuesday, July 28, when W. H. Taft will formally accept the republican presidential nomination.

"For the convenience of many we have changed our schedule and instead of leaving the Union Station at 6:30 as we had intended, our C. H. & D. special will start at 8 a. m. We figured that the republicans from the surrounding towns would have more time to get into the city, and we hit it about right. I have just heard from Terre Haute to the effect that a delegation of at least seventy-five will get here in time for the excursion, and similar encouraging reports are coming from various other cities. The train will reach Cincinnati at 11:30. It is likely that most of those who will go from this section of the state will go by way of the B. & O. S-W.

Creating A Sensation All Over the Country. Root Juice is Making Many Remarkable Cures

Quite a sensation is being created in many cities of the country by the remarkable Root Juice discovery. The great remedy is making many remarkable cures in every direction. Many local testimonials were published in this paper until it became useless, as so many people of this city were cured by it. It has certainly proved a wonderful remedy for the stomach, liver kidneys and blood. Many who suffered for years with indigestion, rheumatism and kidney complaints, after taking a few bottles of the wonderful health-giving Juice have been restored to perfect health. It is also proving to be a wonderful nerve feeding, strengthening tonic for weak nervous people. It is sold for $1 a bottle, or three bottles for $2.50. They will tell you about it at W. F. Peter drug store.

Coming to Seymour.

That arrangements may be made for the Columbus Chapter of the Order of Eastern Star to attend the meeting of the Seymour chapter Friday, August 6, a business meeting will be held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William F. Coats on Seventh street. The local chapter was extended a cordial invitation by the Seymour chapter and many will accept.—Columbus Herald.

Scared At Auto.

Traveling along the country road was an old man and an old lady driving the old family horse. As expected they met an automobile. The old lady threw up her arms as a signal to stop as the law directed. The chauffeur promptly stopped and inquired of the old man if he should lead the old mare past the machine. "No, no lead the old lady, she is the one that's scared," said the old man.

Ezra Jolly sold a calf to Bloomer, the butcher, of Seymour, last Monday.

The threshing club met last Saturday night and organized for another year. The club is all right if they would leave out the old dinner bucket and feed the hands as heretofore. It seems as though there is no sociability in a neighborhood where they vote against feeding their neighbors and friends when they do your work. If the machine men are worthy of a warm square meal, why not all of the hands be treated likewise.

Kate Rich spent Monday afternoon with Mrs. Maggie Rich.

This is what Hon. Jake Moore, State Warden of Georgia, says of Kodol for Dyspepsia: "E. C. DeWitts & Co., Chicago, Ill.—Dear Sirs—I have suffered more than twenty years from indigestion. About eighteen months ago I had grown so much worse that I could not digest a crust of corn bread and could not retain anything on my stomach. I lost 25 lbs; in fact I made up my mind that I could not live but a short time, when a friend of mine recommended Kodol. I consented to try it to please him and was better in one day. I now weigh more than I ever did in my life and am in better health than for many years. Kodol did it. I keep a bottle constantly, and write this hoping that humanity may be benefited. Yours very truly, Jake C. Moore, Atlanta, Aug. 10, 1904." Sold by all Druggists.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney nerves. The kidneys, like the heart, and the stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine is scanty, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggists recommend and sell.

POWER OF BREWERY

How It Is Exerted Through Saloons It Controls.

Indianapolis, July 23.—Louis Ludlow, the well-known political writer, presented the following today regarding the power of the brewery in Indiana politics: An interesting and valuable collection of statistics, compiled by the state statistician and published herewith for the first time, throws a flood of light on the power of the brewers to control politics in Indiana.

The saloon is one of the main cogs in the great brewery machine. The brewers exert a large measure of their political influence through saloon keepers whom they control. The brewer furnishes bond for the saloon keeper, which puts the saloon keeper under obligations to him. After that the saloon keeper is virtually a tool of the brewer, and when the brewer plays the fiddle the saloon keeper must dance. The report shows that during the six months indicated 3,002 saloon licenses were issued in Indiana. Of the saloon keepers taking out licenses, 274 were bonded by breweries, the name of the brewery in each instance appearing on the bond, and 717 were bonded by brewery agents, making a total of 991 saloon keepers who were set up in business during the brief period of six months by breweries.

Democratic managers are making much of the statement of Thomas R. Marshall, their nominee for governor, that he favors the repeal of the metropolitan police law and that if it isn't repealed he will appoint as police commissioners only such men as are recommended by the mayor and council of the cities affected. They are making their plank in favor of the repeal of the law one of the paramount issues in the fourteen metropolitan police cities, and they hope to be able to line up several thousand Republican votes on it. They declare that they are standing for home rule for every city and that the metropolitan police system is a relic that should have been dispensed with long ago. The Democrats have been trying to repeal the law for several years. During the last legislature they obtained the enactment of a bill repealing it, but Governor Hanly vetoed it and a majority of the members stood by him. With the Republican leaders it was then a matter of politics more than principle in having the governor sustained. It is now said that many of them regret that they didn't let the legislature go ahead and pass the veto over the governor's head. Governor Hanly regards his position as unimpeachable and he has circulated thousands of pamphlets containing his veto messages. In cities like Anderson, Muncie, Marion, Elwood, Logansport, Hammond and New Albany, there is a very deep sentiment in favor of the repeal of the law.

The Democrats of the Thirteenth district are holding their congressional convention at Plymouth today. The Fogarty element of the party at South Bend probably will present the name of William A. McNerny, president of the board of works at South Bend. McNerny is not an avowed candidate, but he is being put forward by some of the strongest party leaders in his district. Henry A. Barnhart of Rochester is an avowed candidate. Announcement was made by T. D. Scales, First district chairman, that the Democrats of the First will hold their congressional convention at Boonville on Aug. 11. It is conceded now that Mayor Boehne of Evansville will be nominated.

INDIANA WILL BE OUT IN FORCE

Thousands of Hoosiers Expecting to Go to Cincinnati.

OTHER NEIGHBORING STATES

Illinois and Kentucky Are Also Expecting to Send Mammoth Delegations to the Taft Notification Ceremonies—A Graceful Feature of the Day Will Be the Non-Partisan Character of the Celebration, a Prominent Democrat Having Been Selected as Marshal of the Grand Parade on Tuesday.

Cincinnati, July 24.—From advices which continue to pour into the headquarters of the Taft notification day committee, the indications are that large delegations will come here to take part in the notification ceremonies.

Special trains will be run from Indiana, Kentucky and Illinois. Chicago is certain to send a big delegation, and from other points in Illinois there will be large numbers of visitors.

Robert H. Bryson of Indianapolis, chairman of the Indiana committee on arrangements, said today that 1,500 will come from the Indiana capital to take part in the parade. Many other special trains are to be run from various points in Indiana. The Kentucky Republicans declare they expect to bring in as many as come from Indiana.

The non-partisan nature of the demonstration in Taft's honor has been emphasized by the active interest taken in the preparations for the day by well-known Democrats of Cincinnati. William Allen, a prominent Democrat, will be marshal of the parade. Among the prominent local organizations who will be in the parade will be the Blaine club of this city. At the convention in Chicago the Blaine club was conspicuous and its members are ambitious to make as good a showing here on notification day.

TO LOSE NO TIME

President Directs Bonaparte to Go After Standard.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 24.—President Roosevelt announces in unmistakable terms the determination of the administration to proceed with the prosecution of the Standard Oil case, despite the decision adverse to the government handed down by the United States circuit court of appeals. This decision, the president thinks, in no way affects the merits of the case, and he makes known his decision to cause the action to be brought again before the courts in such shape, if possible, as to prevent technicalities interfering with a decision based upon the actual issues involved. The statement in the matter, made public by Secretary Loeb, follows:

"The president has directed the attorney general to immediately take steps for the retrial of the Standard Oil case. The reversal of the decision of the lower court does not in any shape or way touch the merits of the case except in so far as the size of the fine is concerned. There is absolutely no question of the guilt of the defendants or of the exceptionally grave character of the offense. The president would regard it as a gross miscarriage of justice if through any technicalities of any kind the defendant escaped the punishment which would have unquestionably been meted out to any weaker defendant who had been guilty of such offense. The president will do everything in his power to avert or prevent such miscarriage of justice. With this purpose in view the president has directed the attorney general to bring into consultation Mr. Frank B. Kellogg in the matter and to do everything possible to bring the offenders to justice."

HIBERNIANS ARE ENTHUSIASTIC

Their Hearts Are Set on the Freedom of Ireland.

NOTHING SHORT OF THIS END

In His Annual Address President Cummings Arouses Much Enthusiasm in Declarations Favoring the Complete Independence of the Auld Sod—Attendance at Present Convention Exceeds That of Any Gathering of the Order in Recent Years—Cummings Seems to Be Sated to Succeed Himself.

Indianapolis, July 24.—National President Matthew Cummings of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, in his address to the national convention of the order, stated that the membership had increased 10,280 during his incumbency. In his exuberance he predicted that in the days to come the Catholic church is to be the mainstay of the republic, and that the A. O. H. will be found in the front rank of support. Independence for Ireland was

MATTHEW CUMMINGS, PRESIDENT ANCIENT ORDER HIBERNIANS.

Mr. Cummings's main theme, and he said the order never would be satisfied with less.

Friends of President Cummings are asserting that he will be re-elected national president by a large majority. James E. Dolan, candidate for president, who was defeated by President Cummings at a former convention, spoke briefly to the delegates. He is an active candidate and has a considerable following.

Miss Anna C. Malla, national president of the ladies' auxiliary to the A.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH, INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

O. H. denounces the caricatures of the so-called "Irish" character now being put on picture postcards. In her address she spoke of the work of her organization for the reform of the stage "Irishman." She declared that as a result of this crusade the repulsive stage Irishman and the more repulsive stage Irishwoman are rarely found today. The work is to go on until dealers cease to sell the unsightly and insulting St. Patrick's day postcards and souvenirs.

The national convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians this year is the largest in point of attendance that the organization has held for several years. The daily sessions are being held from day to day in Knights of Pythias hall. Features of the convention were an address of welcome by Mayor C. A. Bookwalter, high mass at St. John's church, a parade of various civic and religious organizations, and a banquet in Tomlinson hall last night.

The origin of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, which is now one of the strongest organizations in America, was among the Irish peasants, who formed the bodyguard of the heroic priests who during the "penal days" offered up mass for their flocks. It was about seventy years ago that the order was introduced into the United States. Since that time its growth has been phenomenal.

In fact, in most cases one dose is sufficient. It never fails and can be relied upon in the most severe and dangerous cases. It is equally valuable for children and is the means of saving the lives of many children each year.

In the world's history no medicine has ever met with greater success.

FRIDAY, JULY 24, 1908.

WHY not join the republican hosts at Cincinnati next Tuesday? That will be a great day in the Ohio city.

THE goal of Tom Taggart's ambition is the United States Senate but the people of the Hoosier state will never elect a legislature that would put him there. They know him too well.

IF you want to know Henry Waterson's honest opinion of Bryan look through the files of the Courier-Journal back in 1896. He cannot get away from the record he made in 1896 and since.

"TWICE" says a Baltimore paper,
"Maryland threw her vote heavily against Bryan, and this year it will be a landslide." A slump like Parker's may possibly discourage Mr.
Bryan a little.

WITH Colonel C. G. Conn leading the Hearst forces in Indiana Tom Taggart will be kept busy dodging.
Taggart and his crowd run over Conn at the state convention but they can not do it through the campaign.

A DEMOCRATIC paper calls M. W.
Howard, of Alabama, candidate for vice president on the Hearst ticket,
"a professional Populist." In other words, he was one of Bryan's welcome helpers and fused with him in the first two battles.

THE head of Mr. Bryan's literary bureau says: "A political revolution is at hand. All the signs point to a change of party control of the government in 1908." If there are any such signs that personage ought to point them out. Mr. Bryan has not yet mentioned any of them, and he would be likely to see them if anybody could. And if he saw any of them he would quickly tell his countrymen about them.

As another school year approaches
the people of Seymour are not unmindful of the fact, often mentioned, that one of the crying needs of our city is a new and modern highschool building. It is needed for the safety and health of the boys and girls who go to the old building from day to day throughout the year. It is also needed for the better educational advantages that go with a modernly equipped school building. The new building is needed now and it will not be long until it will have to be provided.

IN a signed appeal Bryan and Kern are begging the farmers for contributions for the Democratic fund.
One thing is certain, that is, they have the money this time. They did not have it to contribute the first time Bryan was a candidate. Another thing is, the farmers, generally, are so well pleased with the prices they are receiving for their farm products under Republican times, that they are not likely to be very liberal in subscribing for a fund to help lower the prices for farm products.—Paoli Republican.

Women Who Wear Well.

It is astonishing how great a change a few years of married life often make in the appearance and disposition of many women. The freshness, the charm, the brilliance vanish like the bloom from a peach which is rudely handled. The matron is only a dim shadow, a faint echo of the charming maiden. There are two reasons for this change, ignorance and neglect. Few young women appreciate the shock to the system through the change which comes with marriage and motherhood. Many neglect to deal with the unpleasant pelvic drains and weaknesses which too often come with marriage and motherhood, not understanding that this secret drain is robbing the cheek of its freshness and the form of its faisness.

As surely as the general health suffers
when there is derangement of the health of the delicate womanly organs, so surely when these organs are established in health the face and form at once witness to the fact in renewed comeliness. Nearly a million women have found health and happiness in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Ingredients on label—contains no alcohol or harmful habit-forming drugs. Made wholly of those native, American, medicinal roots most highly recommended by leading medical authorities of all the several schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments.
For nursing mothers, or for those broken-down in health by too frequent bearing of children, also for the expectant mothers, to prepare the system for the coming of baby and making its advent easy and almost painless, there is no medicine quite so good as "Favorite Prescription." It can do no harm in any condition of the system. It is a most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nerve nicely adapted to woman's delicate system by a physician of large experience in the treatment of woman's peculiar ailments.

STATISTICS ON IT

Numerically the Saloons in Indiana
Have Lost Little Ground.

Indianapolis, July 24.—A bulletin compiled by State Statistician Stubbs shows that in spite of the great activity of the temperance forces in driving out saloons in 1907, the total number at the end of the year was 5,214, as against 5,253 at the close of 1906.
However, while the Anti-Saloon League drove the saloons out of several counties and has made over three-fourths of the state "dry," the large cities show a great increase in the number of saloons. In Terre Haute the number of saloons in 1903 was 180; in 1907, it was 280; in East Chicago in 1903, 62; in 1907, 206. Other cities, like South Bend, Evansville and Indianapolis, show a large increase in the number of saloons, while the country districts show a decrease.

Thomas Taggart left this city last night for Chicago to attend the meeting of the sub-committee tomorrow at which a new national chairman will be elected. John W. Kern, nominee for vice president, spoke at Gary, Ind., yesterday afternoon, and will join Taggart at Chicago today. Taggart would not express an opinion as to the action the sub-committee will take. He has refused to give anyone here any information regarding his personal choice for the chairmanship. He would have been for John E. Lamb of Terre Haute, but the latter declared several days ago that his name would not be presented. An effort was made by some of Taggart's very close friends to get him into the running for the chairmanship, but he is not a candidate and does not want the place.
One of his lieutenants declared that a majority of the committee were in favor of re-electing Taggart at Denver, but he refused to be considered for the position. It is said that Taggart and Kern will be satisfied to abide by Bryan's choice for the chairmanship.
During the meeting of the sub-commitee it is very likely that the date for the notification of Kern of his nomination will be fixed. Secretary Reiley of the state committee said today that committees will be appointed to arrange for the notification of Kern as soon as the date is fixed for the event.
The notification will be the occasion for the largest Democratic rally of the year in Indiana. Kern says that the only speech Bryan will make in Indiana this year will be at the notification.

The report of the state board of health for June shows that the death rate for the whole state was 10.7. In June, 1907, it was 11.3. The difference is .6, which means that there were almost 100 fewer deaths this June than last. Pneumonia was not so prevalent, as there were only 96 deaths, as compared with 151 in June, 1907. The most prevalent malady in June was rheumatism, and diarrhea was second.
Smallpox caused 3 deaths, 97 cases were reported from 21 counties. The deaths occurred in Indianapolis, Jeffersonville and in the country in Carroll county. In June last year 119 cases were reported from 31 counties, with one death. Tuberculosis wrought its usual havoc. There were 344 deaths. Of this number 292 were of the pulmonary form. Typhoid fever caused 27 deaths, against 25 last June;
pneumonia, 96, against 151; influenza, 8 against 15. These figures indicate an improvement in respiratory diseases. In the winter months the pneumonia deaths average about 200 and the influenza deaths more than 50.
Diphtheria caused 8 deaths, scarlet fever 5, measles 8, whooping cough 25, diarrheal diseases 102, cerebro-spinal meningitis 9, puerperal fever 13, cancer 131, violence 194.

The Indiana special will leave here at 8 o'clock next Tuesday morning over the C. H. & D. road for Cincinnati. Robert Bryson, postmaster, who is in charge of the arrangements here, said today that a large delegation will go from here. The Republicans at Rushville, Connersville and Liberty will send large delegations. Congressman James E. Watson, nominee for governor, will join the party at Rushville and will take part in the exercises along with other Hoosier Republicans.

OLD SOLDIERS

RESENT SLIGHT

Civil War Veterans Refuse to Take Second Place.

Mount Vernon, Ind., July 24.—At the unveiling of the soldiers' and sailors' monument here the veterans of the civil war refused to march in the parade behind the veterans of the Spanish-American war, and formed a parade of their own. Captain Winston Menzies, son of Major G. V. Menzies of Mount Vernon, had been made the chief marshal of the day. He was a captain in the Spanish-American war and had, in arranging the parade, placed the Spanish-American war veterans in front of the veterans of the civil war.

Barnhart the Nominee.

Plymouth, Ind., July 24.—Henry A.
Barnhart, editor of the Rochester Sen-inel, was nominated for congress by the Democrats of the Thirteenth Indiana district in session here.

S.S.S. FOR BAD BLOOD

When bad blood is caused from an infection of the circulation by the virus of Contagious Blood Poison, it usually shows in the form of ulcerated mouth and throat, copper-colored splotches on the body, swollen glands in the groin, falling hair, sores and ulcers, etc. These general symptoms, affecting all parts of the body, show how deeply poisoned the blood becomes, and emphasizes the dangerous character of the trouble. If allowed to remain in the system the disease will finally wreck the health and break down the strongest constitution. No medicine can cure Contagious Blood Poison which does not rid the circulation of every particle of the virus.
S. S. S. is the one real and certain cure; it goes down to the very bottom of the trouble, and by removing every trace of the poison, and adding rich, healthful qualities to the blood, forever cures this powerful disorder. S. S. S. is the most reliable of all blood purifiers, and its concentrated ingredients of healthful vegetable extracts and juices especially adapt it to curing this insidious trouble. Write for our home treatment book, which is a valuable aid in the treatment of the different stages of the disease, and ask for any special medical advice you wish. No charge for either.

It is inherently misleading to say that our general business prosperity "came with the prosperity of the railroads"—as if the railroads had created their own prosperity first and had then invited the country at large to share in it, or had set a pace in prosperity-making that the general business of the United States was quick to catch up with and follow.

One of the largest cantilever bridges in the world will be opened to the public in the early autumn, when the bridge connecting Manhattan Island with Long Island, by way of Blackwell's Island, is completed. The bridge will be in three spans, the longest of which is nearly twelve hundred feet. The spans of the Fifth of North cantilever bridge are each seventeen hundred feet long. The new bridge carries two floors. On the lower one there will be four tracks for surface cars and a driveway for carriages. There will be four tracks for elevated cars on the upper floor, besides two foot paths. This is the third bridge across the East River between Manhattan and Long Island, but it will not be the last. Work is progressing rapidly on a fourth one, between the old Brooklyn Bridge and the new Williamsburg Bridge.

We start out in life with a definite amount of possible energy. We can spend it as we please; but even with the best intentions many people use up a large part of their capital in worry, anxiety or by fretting over nonessentials—trifles which have nothing whatever to do with their success. Many people go through life without ever getting full possession of themselves. They do not seem able to grasp their possibilities; they never develop the faculty of flinging their lives out with force and effectiveness along the line of their bent. They can use some of their faculties to advantage, and can do some things fairly well, but never come to a full knowledge of their possible strength. If we could only learn to control our thought-force and to spend it where it is needed, instead of allowing it to ooze out or leak away in dribbles on unimportant matters, what marvels we might accomplish! Some people spend half the power they generate in vain worry, bickering, splitting hairs over irrelevances. Much of our possible success-energy is wasted through fear, which in all its phases is the greatest curse to the human race—fear of failure, fear of imaginary conditions and happenings that never come about, dread of criticism and forebodings about the future. Countless promising lives have been wrecked by this gloomy phantom, fear. Could we all put away all of these illusions and trivialities, which drain our life forces, and devote all of our energy to the essential things that lie ever close at hand, the progress of humanity would be amazing.

The failure of Harry Thaw to obtain his release from custody is a highly desirable outcome of the habeas corpus proceedings instituted in his behalf. There is no doubt the effect upon a public opinion already sufficiently cynical as to the efficiency and rectitude of our laws would have been of the worst if Thaw had proceeded so promptly from the dock to absolute freedom. Only one interpretation would have been put upon this sequence by the average American—namely: that evasion of law is the secure privilege of the rich. The rough reasoning of the public at large would have brushed aside the possibility of recovery and would have struck straight at the fact that a liberal expenditure from the Thaw millions "experts" and shrewd counsel had first saved Thaw from the consequences of his act by establishing one hypothesis and then saved him from the consequences following upon this hypothesis by repudiating it. Insane delusion sometimes is cured. But the judge who committed Thaw to Matteawan gave it as his opinion, based upon the opinion of authorities in alienism, that Thaw's type of aberration was incurable. This declaration would have given to the popular opinion a final certainty that Thaw had evaded the law. Happily the public has escaped this disturbing conclusion and the administration of justice has been saved from another blow in the popular estimation. It is devoutly to be hoped that, not only for the safety of those upon whom a recurrence of Thaw's mania might be wreaked but for the welfare of the public at large, the courts of New York will not take chances with his case. When Thaw is proved sane and permanently cured beyond a reasonable doubt, let him be allowed to go free. But not till that proof is given.

A BEDROOM IN A TREE.

Sleeping outdoors in a rudely constructed house erected among branches of a high walnut tree in the heart of Flatbush, N. Y., is the novel method a young man has taken of "getting near to nature." The "tree house," as the people in the neighborhood call it, is located on the lawn surrounding the home. A wooden stairway winds around the tree's trunk leading to the single chamber above, allowing an easy ascent to be made. The entire structure is made of wood.

At first the intention was simply to build a "crow's nest," where the "tree sleeper" and his companions could seclude themselves on rainy afternoons and days when it was too hot for active exercise. The "crow's nest" did not prove to be large enough, so the boys added a large platform, which forms what they call their piazza. This piazza is roomy enough for an ordinary sized dining room table and comfortably accommodates six or eight diners.

Then the boys decided that they would like to see how it would feel to sleep out in the open. They covered the top of the house with panes of glass, and this gave them all the light, day or night, they needed. The trial worked so well that they declared that thereafter they would, while the weather was warm, sleep in the tree.

In the Spring, Etc.

"Perhaps it's oversensitiveness on my part," remarked the old bachelor, "but from this time on until autumn sets in again in earnest I am going to be continually embarrassed by public love-making. Last Sunday afternoon I went for my usual stroll in the park, and I suffered any number of minor shocks from coming on couples spooning on the benches along the paths. Later on I had to ride down town in the subway, and I saw two more couples talking into each other's faces as if there wasn't a human being within a mile of them. Of course they don't mind me. But I hate to be put in the attitude of an intruder on love's young dream."

GEN. SIR REDVERS BULLER.

Noted Commander in Boer War Who Died Tuesday in London.

Gen. Sir Redvers Henry Buller, who died in London recently, had a notable military career. For the greater part of his lifetime he enjoyed not only admiration but adulation in England, and it must be confessed that up to the last Boer war nothing occurred to tarnish his fame. He went to South Africa as commander of all the forces there at the outbreak of the Boer war and England was satisfied that he was the proper man for the post. But soon his advice to the home government, beginning with "I regret to report," spread consternation and he met with repeated reverses while fighting his way to the relief of Ladysmith. The noted battles in which he met reverses were those of Gatacre, Methuen and the Tugela River, while his reputation as a commander and strategist was ruined by the bloody struggles at Spion Kop. Buller was superseded by Gen. Lord Roberts. He, however, relieved Ladysmith after it had been invested 118 days and afterward operated in conjunction with Lord Roberts. The most damaging thing to his military reputation was his heliograph message to Gen. White, who defended Ladysmith, to surrender the place to the Boers. Gen. White, however, refused to capitulate, thus sparing England what would have been "the most calamitous reverse in English military history."

Gen. Buller's first military service was during the China war of 1860. He fought in nearly a dozen African wars, including the Zulu war of 1879, the first Boer war of 1881, the Egyptian war of 1882 and the Sudan campaign of 1884. During the Zulu war he won the Victoria cross.

Gen. Buller belonged to an old Devonshire family and was highly connected socially. He was an iron disciplinarian, but was loved by his men because he never asked them to go where he was not willing to lead. Despite the South African reverses which tarnished his reputation as a soldier he remained the idol of the British masses until the end.

WILL JUMP FENCES.

Fox-Hunting Auto Will Make a Hurdle Just Like a Horse.

Here's the last cry of the twentieth century—the fox-hunting auto. It will rise in the air, take a fence or a ditch, a brook or a hurdle, with the same ease that it skims along the highway or whisks over country roads. Much has been done for the automobile within one year. The hurdler isn't the only one. There is the traction automobile that goes ahead without roads, up hill and down dale, through sand and mud, over brooks and swamps, just as if roads had been built for it.

THE FOX-HUNTING CAR.

Then there is the new machine planned by Henry Farman, the man who won the Deutsch prize in Paris for his flying machine. He puts wings to his auto—he will fly over the ground. Really, nobody can guess where the twentieth century automobile will stop. There seems to be no limit to what men will do.

The new fox-hunting auto, the invention of which is announced by Ernest Charleton Webb, of Brooklyn, is little different from the ordinary car. But the difference is everything. It is equipped with self-acting mechanism, having power of motion in itself.

All the chauffeur has to do is to pull a lever. The mechanism is started and the automobile will instantly rear on its hind wheels. A fence or a stone wall means nothing—the machine will take it without a quiver.

Of course, any automobile that jumps in the air comes down pretty hard. But that is all provided for. When he has taken his jump—hurdle, ditch, brook or stone wall—the chauffeur reverses the lever, which expands springs under the body of the machine. These give an elastic or cushioning effect when the car hits the ground again after the jump, and completely take up the jar and shock. Nobody is hurt, and the car chug-chugs along the roadway as if nothing had happened.—New York World.

Oxen Build the Railroads.

The ox as a beast of labor has about had his day with the American farmer. He is raised by wholesale, killed by wholesale, and distributed throughout the world as beef, but he doesn't have to work, says the New York Sun.

Up in Eastern Canada, however, he does a big stunt of work before he is eaten. In Nova Scotia, especially, oxen are still used for all sorts of farm work.

They plow the fields, haul the hay and apples and potatoes and cart in the firewood from the forest. They are slow, it is true, but there is time and to spare in those parts.

Of late the ox has been helping to build the railroads in Nova Scotia. He is found to be very useful in grading the roadbed, which calls for a lot of short haul work. The oxen are yoked in pairs and as many pairs can be used tandem as are necessary to any given job. They are patient and untiring.

Over the last state of the Nova Scotia ox it were better to draw the veil. When his working days are about over he is fattened and then slaughtered. Furthermore, he is eaten, and if those who have made him work through his long and busy life have the eating of him he is well revenged.

Congress recently increased his pension to $50 a month. Dorman was born in New York State.

Dough.

Dough is made out of wheat, real estate, oil, literature and magazine articles. But dough made of wheat is no stickier than any other. Dough is the prior fact to bread, motor cars, steam yachts and collections of old books. It is the staff of high life. It embitters matrimony and purveys the lovely scandals we read about. It gets girls sent off to college and fitted to be something more spectacular than mere wives and mothers. It curseth them that go in for it, but not unto the third and fourth generations. We are too good spenders for that. It is from dough that the dowdy, the dull and the dotty derive distinction otherwise denied.—Puck.

Great activity is being displayed by the Turkish government in building bridges along the important strategic routes in Macedonia and eastern Roumelia. In the battle which has been waged against the water hyacinth which chokes up many of the rivers in the southern part of the United States, the matter has been complicated to a serious degree by the fondness which cattle exhibit for this plant. It is almost without food value, but there is something about it which attracts the animals and they have been known to be lured to death in the efforts to secure the hyacinth.

The typical American is popularly supposed to be a shrewd, hard, level-headed man of business, and that estimation is right, as far as it goes. But beneath these salient characteristics lies a fund of sheer sentimentality and emotionalism which can not be beaten in any other country. You will find it in American fiction, and you will get it in the archaic melodramas that still draw tears and cheers, sighs and smiles from American audiences.—Ladies' Field.

Minnesota is just fifty years old, and its development during this period has been marvelous. During the half century the population of the state has grown from 150,000 to 2,000,000. The wealth of its people was approximately $30,000,000 fifty years ago, and the assessed valuation of their property now is $1,000,000,000, or $500 per capita instead of $200. There are now more cultivated farms supporting prosperous families than there were men, women and children in the state fifty years ago.

Owing to many swindles perpetrated recently through forged and stolen letters of introduction, a card of photographic identification invented by a Pittsburg man has become popular in that city. Now when the Pittsburger's friend asks him for a letter of introduction, he takes the friend to the nearest photographer and is photographed with him in an attitude of presentation. Then he writes his note on the picture. And when it is presented the recipient has no doubts as to the identity of his caller.

The great practical utility of the magnetic survey made in the Pacific ocean by the yacht Galilee since 1905 is shown by a new magnetic chart, from which it appears that the charts previously used by navigators in the Pacific ocean were erroneous along some much-traversed routes to the extent of from three to five degrees, and the errors at times were systematic. Errors of this magnitude are of importance in practical navigation, where the indications of the compass should be as accurate as possible.—Youth's Companion.

An organization has recently been effected with the object of conducting a complete scientific investigation and exploration of the Pacific ocean and its islands. While the chief energies of the institution will be devoted to ethnology, the geology and configuration of the region will also be investigated, and studies in zoology and botany will be carried out, as also of winds and ocean currents, with a view to throwing light on the distribution of animals, plants and of the human race. Expeditions are to be dispatched in a specially equipped vessel, and it is expected that fifteen years may be needed for the work.

PRIEST, AGED 100, FINDS LOTS OF LAUGHS IN LIFE.

CANON J. C. MOYNIHAN.

Do you think that at 100 you will be able to see without spectacles, hum a merry roundelay, enjoy a funny yarn and laugh as loudly as the end man at a minstrel show?

Canon J. C. Moynihan, of Chicago, does all of these. He is vigorous and active, he sleeps well and his appetite is good. His laugh is like the first welcome peal of summer thunder.

Canon Moynihan was born in Kanturk, County Cork, Ireland, May 3, 1808. He came to America seventy years ago, and for many years after his admission to the priesthood was stationed in New Orleans. Later he was rector of a parish in Bradford, Ill. At one time he was spoken of as a possible bishop of New Orleans. His age, however, was against him. He resides with the family of Mrs. Rosina O'Neil, whom he has known since 1848.

FISHERMAN ACTIVE AT 84.

Capt. Brackett Won Fame as the Designer of the Dory.

The Swampscott has again come into the limelight because of the fact that the design has been favored by the United States navy to replace some of the present designs in small boats, says the Boston Post.

Capt. Brackett, the original designer of the dory, is still hale and hearty, though he is 84 years old, and he devotes almost as much attention to fishing as ever.

In fair weather he usually leads the fleet of shore fishers who put off from King's beach every morning. He still retains his skill, and among the younger fishermen there is always a pleasant rivalry to see who can get as many fish as Capt. Brackett.

Fifty-six years ago Capt. Brackett, then a young man of 32, had built from his own designs the dory which has since made Swampscott famous.

The dory then in use was the "lap-streak," a boat floating low, a hard boat to row, a slow sailer and with a strong inclination to "turn turtle" without warning. Frequent capsizing and the slowness in getting home after having a good catch led to his desire for a safe and better sailing dory.

Always on the lookout for a dory built on new lines, he came across one down on the "cape" and from it he got his ideas.

After drawing his plans he met with an unexpected difficulty—no one cared to build such a "freak" craft, but finally James Knowlton said he would try it.

The frame having been set up and partly planked, it was seen that the new craft had rather a narrow bottom and very round bilges, which was enough in a fisherman's eyes to stamp her as a failure. Even when finished and the good lines were seen, very few but who agreed that the new boat was in no way equal to the "lapstreak."

However, Capt. Brackett had confidence in his boat, and she was entered in all the races and made good.

The Navel Orange.

For a product of nature a California navel orange as it graces the breakfast table or the push cart is about the most artificial thing in the world. It is also a very striking illustration of the fact that while beauty may be only skin deep it counts for a whole lot. To begin with, the navel orange of California is an exotic, reaching its present habitat after devious wanderings. And, be it ever so sweet tasting, if its skin has had its beauty marred it scarcely ever gets farther than the orchard where it grew. Not only that, but even the most comely ones before they are boxed and shipped are brushed by machinery and polished and otherwise fussed with to give them a beauty which mere nature never would have provided.—William R. Stewart, in Technical World.

PAPERS BY THE PEOPLE

PUBLIC OPINION STRONGER THAN LAW.

By Secretary Root.

ELIHU ROOT.

In the vast majority of cases men refrain from criminal conduct because they are unwilling to incur in the community in which they live the public condemnation and obloquy which would follow a repudiation of the standard of conduct prescribed by that community for its members. Where it happens that the law and public opinion point different ways, the latter is invariably the stronger. The force of law is in the public opinion which prescribes it. Social esteem and standing, power and high place in the professions, in public office, in all associated enterprise, depend upon conformity to the standard of conduct in the community. Loss of these is the most-terrible penalty society can inflict.

The rules of international law are enforced by the same kind of sanction, less certain and peremptory, but continually increasing in effectiveness of control.

"A decent respect to the opinions of mankind" did not begin or end among nations with the American declaration of independence; but it is interesting that the first public national act in the New World should be an appeal to that universal international public opinion, the power and effectiveness of which the New World has done so much to promote.

KEEP IDLERS OUT OF COLLEGE.

By Dr. J. H. Canfield of Columbia University.

Extraordinary care should be taken not to admit applicants who are unfit to profit by university education. Not everyone who is scholastically prepared ought to be permitted to take up a college course, much less encouraged to do so. It is on the side of character and characteristics that the utmost care is needed, that the most exact information should be sought—the very point at which most American colleges show greatest indifference and least willingness to accept responsibility.

It is entirely true that a policy of exclusion needs to be administered with greatest sympathy as well as with extraordinary care. But it should be remembered that the path of every worthy student ought to be kept as free and clear as possible, and that the reputation of the university must be considered and maintained.

Said an Oxford officer, speaking of students who barely meet the formal academic requirements of a bachelor's degree, generally known as pass men: "The presence of a pass man in a university is an anomaly closely and dangerously bordering upon a scandal."

It is sadly to be feared that some American institutions have so long endured frivolous and idle men, for one reason or another, that they really fear to apply the knife.

No university ought to tolerate ennui, idleness, indolence and dissipation, or in any way condone failures which result from these. Any university can well afford to have fewer students, if needs be—which does not at all follow—if it can be rid of those who are idle and vicious and really ignorant.

A university degree not only ought to guarantee a certain amount of intellectual training, activity and success, but should be reasonable proof that the holder has been so accustomed to industry and responsibility that he will be neither idle nor inefficient nor irresponsible at the beginning of his life work.

SHAKING HANDS WITH CHINA.

By Minister Wu Ting Fang.

WU TING FANG.

It is my fond hope that the United States will get a large share of China's trade, but in order that this hope may be realized the present friendly relations between the two nations must be maintained, which I have no doubt will be, and all causes of friction be removed.

You produce and manufacture the best of goods, and with your inventive genius and machinery facilities you are able to offer your goods on the market at low prices. But you know that it is human nature for a nation to trade with the most friendly country. China does not want unreasonable advantages and privileges. We want only fair and equal treatment, and I feel sure that your nation, so scrupulously conscientious, will not grudge us that.

May China and the United States continue the best of friends, and may the development of the trade of China with the United States, which I hope will increase every year, bring the two nations still more closely together.

SQUARE DEAL FOR THE CHILDREN.

By Judge B. B. Lindsey of Denver.

The child is a wonderful creature; a divine machine. We have much to expect from him, but he has much to expect from us, and what he returns depends largely upon what we give.

We shall suffer with him, whether we will or not, if we do not share his burdens. Let us not weary of the struggle until the child gets a square deal, for until he does we cannot have and do not deserve to have the manhood and splendid citizenship that will come alone from duty done in childhood's cause.

We have ceased in this country to question the duty of the State. It must provide free education and pass compulsory school and child-labor laws and establish playgrounds, trade schools and juvenile courts, for the State suffers just so far as the child is ignorant or weak. We do not need more to emphasize our responsibility. This nation must take care of its children. From that duty it cannot and it shall not escape. It is only true to itself just so far as it is true to its children.

PATRICK HENRY'S HOME.

Virginia Mansion, Shorn of Former Glory, Is Now a Bat Roost.

Once one of the most hospitable homes in Virginia, scene of some of the most notable gatherings that followed the surrender of Yorktown, whose spacious parlors and broad halls have been graced by the most gallant beaus and most beautiful belles of the Old Dominion, "Montville," one-time home of Patrick Henry, is now the rendezvous of countless thousands of bats. They hang everywhere about the great rooms of the old house. Squeaking ropes of them suspend from the ceilings. Over the windows they form ragged curtains that dissolve as the twilight grows. They fill every nook and cranny of the walls. At night they loosen themselves and literally swarm about the grounds. For years it has been impossible to live in the one-time mansion. Now the heirs of the Aylett estate have decided to burn the house.

The pest of the bats began six years ago, after the death of William Aylett, when the house was closed for a time, the furnishings undisturbed. When the house was closed a year later the lessee could not occupy it. A literal swarm of bats greeted his entrance. Every known means of extermination has been exhausted without result.

An effort to make the house bat-proof was a failure. Hundreds of dollars were spent in repairs, but the bats still found means of entry. They held possession against every onslaught. Thousands were killed by negroes, a prize having been offered to the person who killed the greatest number. One man, standing in the doorway one evening, killed 2,000 with a tennis racket. Still there was no appreciable diminution of their number. The negroes claim the bats come from all directions.

"Montville" is the last of the revolutionary homes in King William County. The land on which it stands was deeded to the first Henry, who came to America, by Charles II. in 1670. The original "Montville" was burned by the British in 1778. The present house was built by Patrick Henry immediately after the surrender of Cornwallis. It was inherited by the present owners through Elizabeth Henry, sister of Patrick Henry, who married the grandfather of the late William Aylett.

EASY HOSPITALITY.

Food Abundance in Virginia in the Seventeenth Century.

Few countries of the world have possessed so abundant and varied a supply of food as Virginia during the seventeenth century. This party explains, writes P. A. Bruce in "Social Century," the hospitable disposition of the people even in those early times. The herds of cattle, which ran almost wild, afforded an inexhaustible supply of milk, butter, cheese, veal and beef. Deer were shot in such numbers that people cared little for venison. So abundant were chickens that they were not included in the inventories of personal estates. No planter was so badly off that he could not have a fowl on his table at dinner.

Vast flocks of wild ducks and geese frequented the rivers and bays and were looked on as the least expensive portion of the food which the Virginians had to procure. Fish of the most delicate and nourishing varieties were caught with hook or net. Oysters and shellfish could be scraped up by the bushel from the bottom of the nearest inlet or tidal stream.

Apples, peaches, plums and figs grew in abundance. Not only were grapes cultivated, but excellent varieties grew wild through the forest. Such an abundance of wild strawberries could be gathered that no attempt was made to raise the domestic berry.

The watermelon flourished, and in hominy, the roasting ear and corn porridge the Virginians possessed articles of food of great excellence, which were entirely unknown to the people of the old world. There was produced on every plantation an extraordinary quantity of walnuts, chestnuts, hazelnuts and hickory nuts. Honey was obtainable in abundance, both from domestic hives and from hollow trees in the forest.

Some Men.

Some men spend most of their lives making the rest miserable. Some men are so little that they cannot see the greatness of trifles.

Some men will waste four dollars' worth of time trying to save twenty-five cents.

Some men think they see everything. They are the ones who invariably "go it blind."

Some men are so dishonest that they suspect every honest man of playing a game too deep for them to get on to.

Some men are only a little removed from their monkey ancestors—they are always busy, yet never accomplish anything.

Some men, who readily admit that a straight line is the shortest distance between two mathematical points, cannot see that exactly the same principle applies in morals.

Some men manage to succeed in spite of their most earnest endeavors.—Warwick James Price.

Seem Long.

Bacon—I see some professor has discovered that if you want to live long you must drink sour milk.

Egbert—Well, it would seem long, wouldn't it?—Yonkers Statesman.

Every boy is proud of the fact that he chews tobacco, and every man is ashamed of it.

THE CROWS.

Faithful friends of the white man, comrades of the pioneer and the soldier in battle with the Sioux and the Cheyenne, the Crow, or Absarake, are now passing from the face of the earth, almost forgotten. The tribe inhabits a splendid reservation in southern Montana, and the whites are striving to open it for settlement, which causes protest from the Crows—a protest which will go unheeded. Gratitude for past favors done should protect the Absarake to-day, but when did the white man show gratitude to the Indian who owned good lands?

The Crow, according to some ethnologists, are of the Shoshoni race, while others classify them as a branch of the Dakota. They are probably a mixture of the two races, crystallized into a compact tribe by the exigencies of war and the pressure of powerful enemies. It is doubtful if they ever numbered more than 4,500 souls—that was an estimate placed on them by Catlin seventy years ago—and they now total about 1,700. The decrease among them has been greater in time of peace than when they were at war. In 1884 they numbered 3,226; this number fell to 2,456 in 1888, and has now shrunk to about 1,720. Consumption is mainly responsible for the immense death rate of the tribe.

The Crows are of great stature, and proud, yet courteous bearing. As warriors, they ranked high among the tribes, and, for their small number, did splendid fighting against the Sioux, Cheyenne and Blackfoot. Their Montana hunting range was one of the richest in the country, and the Absarake managed to hold it despite the ceaseless attacks of far more numerous foes. From the first arrival of the white man, the Crow nation was the new-comer's friend. The Crow warriors fought in countless battles with the prairie hordes, and it was a Crow who alone escaped from the slaughter of the Custer massacre.

Of late years the Absarake have taken great interest in farming, stock raising and irrigation. They are fast acquiring civilization, but are dying so rapidly that only a few of them will be left in another generation.

Women Wear Overalls.

A woman can wear overalls any old time in the State of Arkansas and not violate any of the laws, providing that she does not attempt to disguise herself as a man.

This, according to a Little Rock dispatch, is the gist of a decision handed down by Attorney General Kirby, at the behest of woman inquirers. Kirby, it is said, admitted in his opinion that the wearing of overalls by women might be desirable at times, but hoped that it may not become a general prevailing style.

But there is a lot of uneasiness all over Arkansas, from the hotel rotundas of the cities to the front porches of cross-road stores. For it is feared that, in view of the decision, "women's rights" leagues may be started and the members urged to wear overalls if they care to.

SECRET OF AEROPLANE.

Wright Brothers' Airship Is Described by Builders.

What purports to be a complete description of the Wright brothers' successful aeroplane has been given out. The description was taken from drawings and descriptions filed with the French patent office when application was made for patents which the French government issued last January.

To the partial description of the invention given by the Wrights themselves, but one new fact is advanced, the plan by which the aviator is enabled to maintain the equilibrium of the aeroplane despite sudden and variable to maintain the equilibrium of by means of building the main planes in three sections, the center one of which is rigid while the other wings are so pivoted that a turn of a wheel at the operator's hand causes one wing to lift slightly while the other is correspondingly depressed, thereby increasing the angle of resistance in one wing and decreasing it in the other, the effect of which is to return the machine to an even keel.

Prevention of a rotary movement being given to the machine by the action of the air currents on the wings is effected by a "fish-tail" rudder that is set at the rear of the machine and is connected by cables with a similar rudder on the front of the machine. A horizontal rudder is also fixed to the front of the machine.

Orville Wright's description of the machine is quoted as follows:

"Approximately it consists of a box-like frame 40 feet wide, 7 feet long and 7½ feet deep, made of spruce and ash. At the center and top front is a front rudder, a feature which the Wrights introduced and which has proved superior to the old method of a rear rudder.

"In the center, to the rear, is the tail of the machine, approximately twelve feet in length, less than one-third the length of those on French flyers. This consists in different models of one or two vertical cloth-covered frames.

"At the rear, balancing the machine and as near the center as possible, are two propellers. Below the frame work and toward the rear is a skid, similar to the runners of sleds. This is used for landing and differs in this particular from the French machines, which are equipped with wheels. For a portion of twelve feet at each end the upper and lower frame work is provided with a surface of strong cotton cloth.

"In the center of the machine at the bottom is a small double-wheel truck, which, running on a monorail, is used while the machine is acquiring speed enough to leave the ground. The monorail is easily movable in any direction.

"The Wright machine weighs about 800 pounds, and in addition to its own weight, including a four-cylinder motor of between twenty-five and thirty horsepower, devised and made by the Wright brothers, the machine can carry two men and fuel enough to drive the machine 300 miles. It can carry enough fuel with one man aboard to travel 500 miles."

Peculiar to Terre Haute.

There is just one city in this country where new guests in the two leading hotels drink water just for the fun of it. That is Terre Haute, Ind., says the New York Sun.

It is the joy of the life of the initiated to invite an unsuspecting visitor to the hotel to eat. There is always an expectant look on the face of the host as the guest settles himself, and the host who does not get his looked-for laugh is rare.

As the guest settles himself suddenly there descends by his ear down toward the table like a shot a stream of water. Most people jump, according to their jumping abilities.

The stream always safely hits the drinking glass, and as the guest rallies and looks up for the source of the stream there is a grinning colored gentleman holding high something like a small tea kettle with a pretty long spout. The higher the guest jumps the more gratified this person looks.

Almost everybody will drink two glasses of water and signal for a third just to be sure the knight of the tea kettle can hit that glass. Where the custom originated nobody seems to know, but Terre Haute always refers to it with something like pride.

For the colored gentleman who is the smartest one of the bunch at the trick three feet is nothing to fire a stream from the "water can," as it is styled. He will juggle it first close, then further away, and gradually further and then down again without spilling a drop. Doctors don't have to advise water drinking to people in those hotels.

His Cold Joke.

The American was in the lead. One of its occupants espied the hut of an Eskimo not far off and a pleasant-looking Eskimo maiden standing before it.

The machine, running into the point of the joke, punctured one of its tires.

TORTURES OF ECZEMA
YIELDED TO CUTICURA

"Cuticura Remedies are all you claim them to be. I had eczema for over two years. I had two physicians, but they only gave me relief for a short time and I cannot enumerate the ointments and lotions I used to no purpose. My ankles were one mass of sores. The itching and burning were so intense that I could not sleep. I could not walk for nearly four months. One day my husband said I had better try the Cuticura Remedies. After using them three times, I had the best night's rest in months unless I took an opiate. I used one set of Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent Pills, and my ankles healed in a short time. It is now a year since I used Cuticura, and there has been no return of the eczema.

"I had a small lump in the corner of my eye for over a year which was very painful and got larger all the time. I thought I would try Cuticura Soap and Ointment on it, and now it is gone. I am seventy-three years old and have lived on the farm I now occupy for twenty-seven years. Cuticura Remedies are the safest and most reliable I have ever used for all skin humors. BIT OF RANK INTERFERENCE

With American In Lead Big Race Is Stopped.

London, July 24.—The unfortunate series of disputes which has arisen since the opening of the Olympic games, not only between the Americans and the officials of the Amateur Athletic association, but between the athletes of other nations and the same officials, culminated late yesterday afternoon in an occurrence which threatened to wreck the inter-Olympic meetings.

The trouble was over the final heat of the 400-metres flat race, for which J. C. Carpenter, Cornell University; J. B. Taylor, Irish-American Athletic club; W. C. Robbins, Cambridge, Mass., and Lieutenant Wyndham Halswelle, United Kingdom, qualified. With the exception of Taylor the men got off quickly on the firing of the pistol and Robbins sprinted in front, taking the pole from Carpenter, who was just behind, with Halswelle trailing along beside him. It looked like anybody's race as they approached the last turn, the three leaders being bunched. Their spurt for the final hundred yards was just begun when suddenly one of the officials rushed onto the track, the tape across the finish was torn down, and the race was declared void. It was hard for a time to understand what had occurred, but the official pronouncement was that Carpenter had fouled Halswelle at the turn. Everybody close to this spot had noticed that the three men had swerved toward the outside of the track as they came around the bend at a terrific pace, but there were no signs of a deliberate foul visible to those in the press stands.

An uproar followed such as seldom or never was witnessed on an athletic field. Officials of the Amateur Athletic association with whom the arena has been filled since the opening of the games, ran along the edges of the track shouting "foul" and appeared even more excited than the runners, who, with the exception of Taylor, continued the race to the finish, Carpenter passing the post first, Robbins second and Halswelle third. Taylor, who was a considerable distance in the rear, was dragged off the track by one of the excited officials, who shouted all the while that it was no race.

The American contingents sent up a yell of delight, as their man had apparently captured the race, which had been predicted for the Britisher, while the vast audience filling the other stands sat silent, not knowing the cause of the excitement in the arena.

Then the announcer made the brief statement through a megaphone that the race had been declared void, but no reason was given. Still not knowing why, a great British cheer broke out and continued for several minutes, men who could not under any circumstances have seen the incident crying "foul" louder than those sitting opposite the spot where the alleged foul was said to have taken place, and who, seeing Halswelle taking a wide turn, thought it a mistake in judgment, as he had lots of room to pass Carpenter on either side.

The uproar continued for nearly half an hour, and as the people poured out of the stands the arguments were taken up in the aisles and gateways by excited thousands, and the race is still the subject of the bitterest wrangling everywhere.

Matthew P. Halpin, the manager of the American race, who was in the arena, immediately entered a protest claiming the race for Carpenter, who had done the distance according to unofficial watches, in the remarkable time of 48.25 seconds, some watches making it even less.

A committee meeting of the Amateur Athletic association, the details of which have not been made public, was called, and the judges who rendered the decision and Halswelle was called to state their case. Neither any member of the American committee nor any one of the three American runners, however, was called on to make any statement, and the committee after upward of two hours' consideration, rendered the following decision: "The judges decide the race void and order the same to be run over again on Saturday at noon. Carpenter is disqualified."

When they heard the decision the members of the American committee met and passed a resolution ordering the men not to run on Saturday.

America is not alone in her protestations against unfair treatment. Sweden has withdrawn all her men from the Graeco-Roman wrestling contests on the ground that one of the Swedish representatives, Anderson, was unfairly deprived of a bout yesterday.

Whatever may be the facts in the unfortunate episode, both the English and the Americans firmly believe that their men are absolutely right and the others wholly wrong, and the result is likely to be extremely damaging to Anglo-American athletics for years to come. The British public takes sport more seriously than any other nation, has fullest confidence in the English judges, and accepts their decisions in international events with implicit confidence. Moreover, the Englishman concerned in this event, Lieutenant Halswelle, is a gentleman of the highest standing and an officer of a popular regiment, which counts for much with his countrymen, who are certain that he would not knowingly profit by an unfair ruling in his own favor.

It is an undeniable fact that American athletes have not been popular in England since the Cornell rowing episode. The public mind has been charged with the belief that American amateurs are tainted with professionalism, and this suspicion has been vastly increased by charges of the sort reproduced from American magazines. No one attending this Olympia could fail to notice the disinclination of the public to applaud American victories, and the games officials apparently have thought the American competitors needed sharp watching. The Americans have been conscious of the atmosphere of suspicion surrounding them and have done their utmost to win victories so cleanly that no one could grumble.

All the men agree that Trainer Michael Murphy called the runners together before the start of the race, and in telling them what a good man they had to beat and how careful they had to be on account of the statements in the papers that Americans would try unfair play, cautioned them to be fair above all things and to run their hardest. They all say they were doing this and nothing more.

F. Leroy Holmes of Chicago also had an unpleasant experience with the spectators. He was giving a splendid exhibition in the standing high jump, when without any cause whatever, the spectators commenced to "boo." This got so bad that the referee had to call out that if the disturbance did not stop the jumping would be postponed. This threat served to bring quiet, although Holmes had been made very uncomfortable.

This and other signs of ill-feeling toward the Americans has not escaped the notice of continental visitors, the French correspondents who have been following the sports particularly condemning the way in which the Americans have been treated, and after the 400-metres race and the Holmes incident they, with others of their countrymen, took up the arguments in behalf of the American case.

LIGHTNING STRIKES
TROOPERS' CAMP

Pennsylvania Guardsmen Caught
In Fierce Summer Storm.

Gettysburg, Pa., July 24.—As a result of a severe electrical storm which passed over the encampment of the national guard of Pennsylvania last night, three troopers were killed and twenty-six seriously injured. Those killed were: Privates Burt Barber and Milton Garver of the Tenth regiment, and Private Morrison, Sixteenth regiment.

When the storm came up Governor Stuart was entertaining a few friends in his tent. The storm broke with such suddenness and fury that the occupants of the tent found themselves entangled in the canvas and ropes in an instant, but all escaped serious injury.

There were nearly fifty men in the regimental guard tent of the Tenth regiment when the storm broke and few escaped without injury. The men of the Second brigade, whose tents were pitched in the low land, were forced to swim to safety.

When the storm swept down upon the camp, there were hundreds of visitors present. Scores of men and women sought shelter in the Young Men's Christian Association tent. This immense tent was tossed like a toy balloon in a gale of wind, but strangely enough, not one person was injured.

Policeman Under Charge.

New York, July 24.—Policeman David Shellard of Brooklyn is under arrest charged with the murder of Barbara Reig, a young woman whose body was found in Irving Square park, Williamsburg. While Shellard confesses he was with the girl when she was shot, he denies that he killed her, saying that she either shot herself with his revolver, which had been lying on a tool-chest, or that the revolver exploded accidentally.

Sixteen Japanese who had illegally entered the United States from Mexico at Eagle Pass, were deported at San Francisco.
